Planners

planners that his property although low for drainage, would have houses built above the street level and the property would drain to the street.

Plans Hit
The petition of Sylvester Morning for a change of zone on property at the southwest corner of Emerald and Valerie Sts. for apartment zoning came under fire from residents of nearby homes.

R. Nolan, 20801 Toluca St., presented a petition opposing the zone. It is now zoned for manufacturing. Morning told the commission that he would build apartments on the land if such financing were available. Otherwise, he said, he would build residences, 1300 to 1500 square feet in size. Another hearing will be held on the matter Sept. 18.

Morning's plans for a 49-home tract on the southeast corner of Emerald and Valerie also was held over for study. It was suggested that some study be given to a possible buffer zone around the property.

Zoning Studied
In its study of possible rezoning of the southeast corner of Carson and Madrona and the southwest corner of Carson St. and Maple for multi-family residential use from commercial use, the Planners heard a protest from the owners of the property, the Chanslor-Western Oil and Development Co.

The move was sought by the planners to prevent objectionable development from the housing development across the street. Commissioner Thirvin Fleetwood, had of a committee investigating a proposed tract northwest of 182nd and Dofy, declined to make a recom-
